Brandon House Program Curriculum

Due to COVID-19, Brandon House has not been able to offer after-school programming in an effort to keep both our staff, students and their families safe. Since we have not been able to have our students physically present in the building, Brandon House has had the opportunity to create and develop various curricula suitable for students elementary to high school-age to allow for virtual programming as well as in-class programming. The curriculum allows students to engage in learning experiences using intentional learning activities that utilize self-expression, artistic exposure, shared experiences, creative solutions, and guided instruction to support the development of these 21st century workforce competencies.

Our charge with Arts Over Tobacco is to share opportunities, resources, and support with youth and young adults to overcome any pressures or desires to use tobacco and other drugs and encourage them to participate in creative and performing arts activities as alternatives. We are asking our readers to complete a quick survey to assess your knowledge about tobacco. Please click the link below and complete the survey.
